

TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION IN HEALTH PROMOTION SCIENCES
Assistant or Associate Professor

The Department of Health Promotion Sciences, College of Public Health
University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center

The Department of Health Promotion Sciences is recruiting for a 12-month tenure-track faculty position. Candidates must have a PhD, DrPH, or equivalent degree at the time of application; bring expertise that expands or augments existing faculty interests. We seek to recruit a team member committed to graduate level teaching/mentoring, community-engagement, and academic scholarship. Responsibilities will include teaching graduate courses, serving on masters and doctoral committees, developing and sustaining an active portfolio of extramurally funded work, and engaging in academic, professional and local communities. Evidence of potential to obtain extramural funding to improve the health and well-being of vulnerable populations or those experiencing disparities is preferred. A research emphasis on obesity, diabetes, cardiovascular disease prevention, or cancer prevention aligns with strategic priorities of the University Health Sciences Center.

The College offers programs for MPH, MS, and PhD degrees, plus a dual MPH/MSW program. Department faculty expertise includes health disparities, food/nutrition equity, American Indian and Latino health, youth wellness, gerontology, participatory research, social marketing. The Department is home to the Oklahoma Public Health training Center. The OU Health Sciences Center is one of only four comprehensive academic health centers in the nation with seven professional colleges – Public Health, Allied Health, Dentistry, Medicine, Nursing, Pharmacy, and Graduate Studies. Cross campus collaboration is encouraged and widespread. Close ties exist with state, county and city health departments, Tribal nations, other colleges/universities, and non-profit/philanthropic organizations. Oklahoma City is the anchor of a rapidly growing, multicultural metropolitan area with a population of 1.3 million, over 300 days of sunshine annually, very affordable cost of living, family friendly environments, and a wide array of cultural amenities. Read more.

To apply, please send a letter characterizing your teaching and research philosophies, your curriculum vitae, publication(s) that characterize your work, and three references with contact information via e-mail to:

Thomas A. Teasdale, DrPH
Professor and Chair
Department of Health Promotion Sciences
College of Public Health
P.O. Box 26901, Oklahoma City, OK 73126
(405) 271-2017
thomas-teasdale@ouhsc.edu

Review of candidates will begin immediately. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. The University of Oklahoma is an Equal Opportunity / Affirmative Action Employer. Women, minorities, individuals with disabilities and protected veterans are encouraged to apply. Please visit our web site at <http://publichealth.ouhsc.edu/AboutUs/Departments/HealthPromotionSciences.aspx>